Why 2017 MDI Imports on Rising Trend

208-02-08

PUdaily, Shanghai -- Today, PUdaily will share an interesting discovery concerning 2017 polymeric MDI customs data. As is shown in the data of recent 6 years, with increasing new capacity in China, polymeric MDI imports go on a declining trend except for 2013, when the imports surge dramatically due to the elevated domestic demands. Moreover, the stability of RMB exchange rate in the first half of 2013 strengthens exporters' competitiveness in global market, allowing goods suppliers in coastal areas to export more. Through data screening and separation, it can be obtained that direct imports of polymeric MDI from January to December 2017 notches about 134,000 tons, and that of crude MDI reaches 84,000 tons...More
